

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

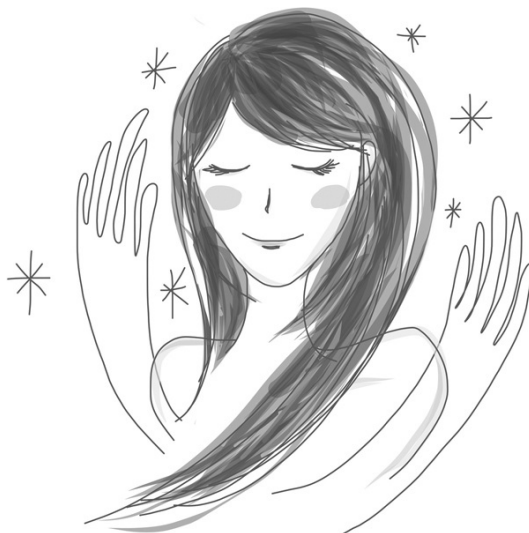

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Always keep your cool!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What are the things or situations that make you lose your temper?
- Do you find it difficult to keep calm under stress? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about relationships and character traits, and use colloquial expressions.
- I can talk about imaginary, impossible, unlikely situations in the present and the past.
- I can link an event to another using words like when, while and as.

Let's Explore!

So many problems at the Bistro!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Supposing I had told you that I wanted my shipment delivered on Monday, what would you have done? ... I see ... Yeah ... What if we had decided to contact a new supplier? Yes. I'm serious. Yes, you should talk to your supervisor. What a bunch of shady, unreliable, slack-jawed, good for nothings.
- Peter: Wow! Don't hold back V. Tell me how you really feel.
- Vanessa: If there hadn't been a family sitting in the area, I would have used some real colorful language.
- Peter: When did you get so angry?
- Vanessa: It's my suppliers giving me the runaround! While we were catering a wedding, they suddenly showed up demanding payment for something I had already paid.
- Peter: That doesn't sound very professional. If only they had this new technology called a computer, they could keep track of such things.
- Vanessa: They just aren't conscientious. I think it's time to give them the boot.
- Peter: You've fired people when you worked elsewhere?
- Vanessa: No. I've fired a few people while working here. I let a bartender go last year.
- Peter: What happened there?
- Vanessa: As he was working here, he was also stealing money from the register.
- Peter: How did you find out?
- Vanessa: I noticed some money missing one day and I suspected something was wrong when I saw the look on his face. So, I checked the security camera and there it was in black and white.
- Peter: Caught red handed.
- Vanessa: Yep. He didn't even deny it. If only he hadn't been so stupid. The restaurant business has a lot of conniving, underhanded, crooked characters in it.
- Peter: You're one of the good ones, V.

Let's Practice!

What a problem!

Instructions: Circle the correct option to complete the sentence. Read the complete sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. I'm tired of my suppliers /giving me the roundabout /guiding me the turnaround /giving me the runaround!
2. These people are useless. They are unreliable and /good at something!/good at many things! / good for nothing!
3. He had no excuse. He was / caught red handed / catch in black / taken white.
4. I checked the camera and there he was, / in black and white /let go/confusing.
5. When your employees aren't performing, it's time to /give them a boot / give them the boot / give them the shoe.

Let's Practice!

What were you doing when that happened?

Instructions: Write the correct words to complete each sentence. Choose from the words in the Word bank. Use capital letters where necessary. Read the complete sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

Word Bank

as he was working here / as I sat at the bar drinking / you worked elsewhere / while we were catering / I saw the look on his face

1. _____ a wedding, they suddenly showed up demanding payment for something I had already paid for.
2. _____, he was also stealing money from the register.
3. I suspected something was wrong when _____.
4. _____ my wine, I heard someone come up behind me.
5. You've fired people when _____?

Extension Activity

Write about making a big change.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write about a time you made a big change in your life.
- What was the change? Why did you decide to make it? What benefits came from it?
- Make your story 250 words long.
- Use time clauses to link events and times together.
- Share with a partner.
- Get feedback.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write about past experiences.

☐ ☐

I use linking words to connect times and events.

☐ ☐

I share my ideas with a partner and receive feedback.

☐ ☐

I give feedback on my partner's work.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to give somebody the runaround (expression): to make it difficult for someone to get something done
e.g. It's my suppliers giving me the runaround!
- crooked (adjective): not honest; corrupt e.g. The restaurant business has a lot of conniving, underhanded, crooked characters in it.
- conniving (adjective): planning secretly to do something deceitful or immoral e.g. The restaurant business has a lot of conniving people in it.
- in black and white (expression): in very clear, simple terms
e.g. I checked the security camera and there it was in black and white.
- to let go (verb): to dismiss an employee
e.g. I let a bartender go last year.
- agitated (adjective): nervous because of worry or fear that is difficult to control e.g. He was so agitated, he hung up the phone.
- to be caught red-handed (expression): to be discovered committing a crime
He was caught red-handed.
- slack-jawed (adjective): unsophisticated or unthinking; dimwitted in appearance e.g. What a bunch of shady, unreliable, slack-jawed, good for nothings.
- to give someone the boot (expression): dismiss an employee; let an employee go e.g. I think it's time to give them the boot.

Learning Points

The Unreal Past: Conditional Words and Expressions

When you talk about the unreal past, you use past tenses to talk about hypothetical situations. You use the Past Perfect tense for unlikely or unreal situations in the past.

The structure of the Past Perfect tense is:

subject + had + past participle

You use it with an If clause to show that it is the unreal past.

If I had known, I would have ...

This means you didn't know, but if you did you would have done something different.

You use expressions like If, supposing, if only, what if followed by the Simple Past if you want to introduce a hypothetical situation or an imaginary condition.

Example:

If only they had this new technology called a computer, they could keep track of such things.

You use expressions like if, supposing, if only, what if followed by the Past Perfect to introduce hypothetical situations in the past.

Example:

Supposing I had told you that I wanted my shipment delivered on Monday, what would you have done?

Look at the following examples from the text:

Examples:

- What if we had decided to contract a new supplier?
- If there hadn't been a family sitting in the area, I would have used some real colorful language.
- If only they had a better system, they could track orders better.
- If only he hadn't been so silly.

Learning Points

Time Clauses: Simultaneous Action

You use time clauses to link different clauses and events. Usually, a time clause introduces a subordinate clause in relation to another event found in the main clause.

You use words like as, while or when to talk about simultaneous actions or to talk about a longer background action taking place when something else happens.

You use while to talk about two longer actions happening at the same time.

Example:

While he was working, he was stealing money from the register.

You use as when you want to say that something changes at the same time as another event starts.

Example:

As I was going through the receipts, I realized something was wrong.

You use when to talk about things that happened at a particular time in the past.

Example:

I suspected something was wrong when I saw the look on his face.

Examples:

- While we were catering a wedding, they suddenly showed up demanding payment for something I had already paid.
- You've fired people when you worked elsewhere?
- I've fired a few people while working here.
- As he was working here, he was also stealing money from the register.
- I suspected something was strange when I walked in.

